

CRAMPED TO CULINARY HAVEN

By: Kitchen Design Concepts

Cost: $101,000

AFTER

BEFORE

The homeowners fell in love with the Tuscan countryside while traveling in Italy and wanted their kitchen to have the same warm, inviting appeal. Incorporating new space and amenities to accommodate the culinary activities of a resident hobby chef and baker was also important.

Every design element was selected to create the rich, organic feel of the Tuscan countryside—from the large teak island and the farmhouse sink to the earth-tone palette and cork floors

Functionally, the room was enhanced with thoughtful elements like a marble baking slab, a pot-filler faucet for convenient pasta making, a hands-free sink that can be activated with food-covered hands and a second prep sink where husband and wife can enjoy working side by side.

Expert Advice

When creating a plan, think about where you want to make your impact statement and work out from there. We firmly believe that education is a critical aspect of developing a relationship with a customer. Select a contractor who will spend the time walking you through the entire process.
— John Todd, Elite Remodeling in Frisco